

2010 Expenses

Food Provided	10%
Medicines - Vaccinations	1%
Shelter - Tents - Housing	15%
Teachers - Schoolbooks	9%
Air Cargo	5%
In-Land Transportation Haiti	9%
Cash Grants	7%
Banking Fees	2%
Phone	4%
Government Tax and Fees	6%
Office	4%
Air Transportation	19%
Salaries	0%
Total Expenses	90%
Cash Reserves	10%

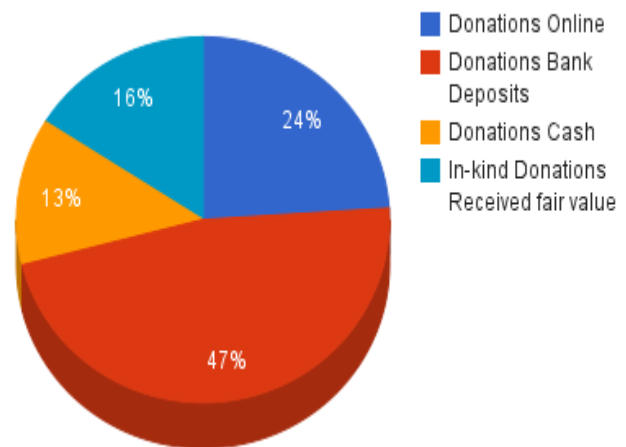

AYITI NOW CORP: Donors 2010

AYITI NOW CORP: 2010 Expenses

AYITI NOW CORP: Donations Since Jan-2010 (as of Jun-26-2011)

We have been unsuccessful in reaching to donors outside our friends. The general public has contributed most of the in-kind donations consisting of school supplies, toiletries, medicines, clothing, toys and vitamins.

We have purchased food and directly distributed to refugees and one orphanage.

Virtually all of the medicines were in-kind donations. The vaccinations were provided free of charge to us by Partners In Health. The healthcare services had a considerable impact at a low cost.

During June 2010 we fundraised specifically for tents which were delivered to women attending the UM clinic in PAP.

In several occasions we released cash grants to pay for teacher salaries. In November 2010 we launched the core schoolbook bank program delivering schoolbooks directly to kids.

The schoolbook bank program will become the main focus of our mission during 2011.

All of the in-kind donations were received in Miami, Florida. This required the need to pay cargo fees. Starting with the January 2010 mission forward airlines refused to discount fees for NPO passengers or cargo.

In-land transportation in Haiti was required to shuttle the kids from rural areas to Sant Marc where Partners In Health offered free vaccinations and other free healthcare services.

Ayiti Now Corp was incorporated January 2010 and later applied for 501 (c)(3) status, most of the government cost and fees reported are one time items.

We expect to consolidate all efforts in the schoolbook bank during 2011. This program is extremely efficient and delivers maximum value at a low cost. Schoolbooks cost starts at $2.50 for first grade.